

Amy Bell has been in education for 23 years. She graduated from Cornerstone University ('97) and entered the workforce as a marketing assistant for a professional soccer team. After much consideration, Amy returned to school and followed her desire to become a teacher. She attended Anderson University ('00) and began teaching both middle school and high school English. Amy also holds a master's degree in education leadership from Cornerstone University. She is a licensed administrator in Michigan.

Amy has worked in many different educational settings from public school, charter school and Christian school. She loves working at FCCS because she can share her love of Jesus with students every day.

Amy is married to Trent and they live in Rockford, Michigan with their four children. As a family, they enjoy family time and time with their children who are in many activities. Amy's children attend Christian school and she believes in the value of an excellent Christian education. Amy has been the administrator at FCCS since 2019.
